

Unlocking billions in private capital to tackle climate change

The UK's International Climate Finance (ICF) mobilises billions in public and private funding for clean energy projects in developing countries.