

VMD advises caution over health claims for tick prevention products promoted on social media

Advertising may not always be accurate, evidence-based or appropriate for individual animals.