Citizens from 21 countries across Europe sent videos to the 'I LIVE GREEN' video competition, showing their big and small actions to protect the environment. In total, participants submitted more than 120 videos to the competition's four categories:

- sustainable food,
- clean air,
- clean water and
- minimal waste.

An EEA selection committee has shortlisted 31 videos for the final round. The committee selected the videos based on their relevance to the topic, creativity, technical quality and persuasiveness of the story.

Now it is up to the public to select the winner of the Public Choice Award of EUR 500. You can vote for up to five videos through this link.

The online vote closes on 31 May and the video with the highest number of votes wins the Award. In addition, a jury of environmental communication experts from across Europe will select the best video in each competition category. The EEA will announce all winners on the World Environment Day, 5 June 2018.
