

Whole genome sequencing service launched to tackle hepatitis C

Latest data show continued progress towards elimination of hepatitis C as a public health threat in England