

World-leading UK higher education sector expands in India and bolsters growth at home

The UK's world-leading higher education sector is set to bring in a £50 million boost to the economy as part of a major expansion of British universities in India.