There's something so grounding about nature's vibrant, quiet growth, just like this stunning Fly Agaric.

Let the start of this week be a reminder that every day is a chance for new growth and a new opportunity.

Are you ready to put in the work!

What's one thing you're excited to focus on this week?

As we wave goodbye to British Summer Time (BST) and embrace the #darkernights, this incredible dragonfly sculpture perfectly captures the transition. A brilliant spark of light against the growing darkness.

How are you embracing the darker night this year? More reading? Movie nights? Let us know.

Did you know? Peel towers (like the one recreated here from a painting of #whithaughtower) were fortified keeps on the Scottish and English borders, built between the 14th and 17th centuries to protect families and their livestock from raids by the fierce Border Reivers. These towers are a rugged testament to a lawless and fascinating period in history. A true link to the past.

It may well be raining again... But....

Did you know that Scotland has its own rainforests?
We are extremely lucky enough to have a glimpse of the is rare and vital #habitat, covered in incredible #mosses, #fungi and #lichens , right in our own back yard at #whithaughtower... Protecting these #wildplaces is so important! #WildScotland #Conservation

Tonight we have another #fullmoon. The #BeaverMoon!

This #supermoon takes its name from the time of year when beavers would be actively preparing for winter.

Perhaps we should all be doing the same!! #welters #nature #oldtree

#HermitageCastle stands silently in the #ScottishBorders, witness to centuries of turbulence this fortress was Constructed around 1240 by Nicholas de Soulis specifically to control the lawless #armstrongclan of #whithaughtower and #mangertontower.

These stone walls could tell the most incredible tales.

The Milnholm Cross is a historic monument located near #Newcastleton in the #ScottishBorders, and it's steeped in history. This ancient cross was erected around 1300 to commemorate Alexander #Armstrong, the 2nd Laird of #Mangerton, who was brutally murdered by William De Soulis at #Hermitage Castle.

The Armstrongs were a powerful and warlike clan with towers locally at #whithaughtower and #mangetontower. The Cross is considered one the oldest monuments to #clanarmstrong and it's a testament to their enduring legacy in the region. #welters

#whithaughtower

Beneath open skies and the towering Christianbury Crags, the spirit of the 'Debatable Land' lingers. For over three centuries, this wild region of #Bewcastle was fought over by lawless #BorderReivers, including the formidable #Armstrong clan of #whithaughtower, who fiercely defended their lands.

A powerful reminder of a turbulent past. #Christianbury #ArmstrongLegacy #BorderHistory #ScottishBorders #LandscapesWithStories #welters

Have you ever encountered a creature so ancient, so intertwined with the forest, that it seems to be part of the very earth?

Deep within the rare and wild temperate rainforest environment at #whithaughtower a mystery awaits.

This majestic, moss-covered creature adorned with fern and lichen waits silently.

Whatever its origin, it stands as a powerful symbol of the ancient connections between the land, the wildlife, and the enduring magic of Scotland's forests. What do you think this mossy marvel is guarding?
