

Zack Polanski: Nigel Farage is trying to con the public – again

Responding to Nigel Farage's decision to trigger a Parliamentary by-election in Clacton, Zack Polanski said:

"Nigel Farage is once again trying to con the public with this stunt – trying to duck the fact that his history of taking dodgy donations is finally catching up with him.

"This is not Nigel Farage vs the establishment but the establishment's man against truth, honesty and decency.

"As much as he now protests he is the victim of a so called smear campaign against him, the truth is that he is a grifter brought down by his own grifting. He has never been a man of the people, but a representative of the wealthy and the establishment.

"We need to take big money out of politics with a cap on political donations, and state funding for political parties so they're not in the pocket of the wealthy and powerful."
